1.0.1 SahodayaSchoolComplexes:The Concept

In 1987, CBSE brought out a publication titled, "Freedom to learn and freedom to grow through SahodayaSchool Complexes" (SSCs) which Organizedon "SSCs" as a voluntary association of schools in a given area,who through mutual choices, have agreed to come together for a systematic and system-wise renewal of thetotal educationalprocess.Inotherwordsas"Sahodaya"signifiesrisingtogether,itidentifiessixareas,for systematic reforms,for collaboration amongst schools of its complex:

Through positive promotional efforts, the Board has helped schools to come together and form an interactive andsharing relationship. At present, there are 260 such complexes which are active throughout the country, coming together to share innovative practices in all aspects of school education including curriculum design, evaluation and pedagogy while providing support services for teachers and students and also introducing the relevance of co-operative learning & collaborative networking.

1.0.2 HistoricalBackground

Though the idea of Sahodaya School complexes was first mooted by the Education Commission,1966,it wasthe National Policy on Education, 1966 which reiterated in strong words the need for promoting schoolcomplexes for meeting the quality of education.This set the tone for bringing the schools together andnetworking them for healthy interaction among themselves .The first national conference of Principals ofCBSE affiliated schools organized by CBSE in collaboration with APSC Madras in 1985 emphasisedcollaboration among schools and establishing linkages in academic and other co-curricular and culturalactivities. The idea of Sahodaya School Complexes was further concretised when CBSE, jointly with NPSC, organized a two day conference of school principals and teachers in Delhi in October 1986. The resolution number 5 stated “Accepting the necessity for establishing school complex(s) which may be named SScomplexes so that isolation that exists today between the school will give way to partnership among schools within the Complex. They identified six areas, to begin with, for collaboration amongst schools of its complex:

1.EducativeManagement	4.ProfessionalGrowthofTeachers
2.Evaluation	5.Value-OrientedSchoolClimate
3.HumanResourceMobilization	6.VocationalisationofEducation.

The year 1987 saw a further boost to the idea of setting up of SS complex (es) when CBSE in pursuance of the National Policy of Education, 1986 used a booklet titled, “Implementation of National policy on Education in CBSE affiliated Schools-Programme of Action for three years” which reiterated school complexes and resolved to encourage the process of setting of Sahodaya School Complexes.

Background of Dr. Radhakrishnan Sahodaya School Complex, Bokaro

Dr. Radhakrishnan Sahodaya School Complex, Bokaro was inaugurated on 12th December 2002 by R. G. Balasubramanian, Director (Academics), CBSE, Delhi in accordance with the idea of Sahodaya School Complex which was first mooted by the Education Commission 1966. It was the National Policy on Education, 1966 which reiterated in strong words the need for promoting school complex for meeting the quality of education. This set the tone for bringing the schools together and networking them for healthy interaction among themselves.

“The year 1987 was a further boost to the idea of setting up of Sahodaya School Complex when CBSE in pursuance of the National Policy of Education, 1966 used a booklet titled Implementation of National Policy on Education in CBSE affiliated schools-Program of Action for three years” which reiterated school complex and resolved to encourage the process of setting of Sahodaya School Complex.
